Post: Partsgenius.com Administration

Company: Parts Genius

The main task was to form a basic concept of a modern level of functionality and design for the fastest implementation in the eCommerce system and to create a stable basis for further improvements and integrations. It was possible to fully implement the chain of search, selection and purchase of the desired product with the help of navigation elements and filtering of sold articles, having made the necessary integration with the api-service for obtaining data. The corporate identity was introduced over the original.

The work was carried out with constant interaction with the customer and strict control of the implemented functionality, all the wishes of the client were taken into account and the necessary corrections and improvements were made within the framework of the contract. In general, a full-fledged ready-made solution was received, which influenced the further development and improvement of the client's interaction with the site.

Ultimately, the customer was quite pleased with the work done, which made it possible to get a workable system "from scratch" in a short time.
